DECIDE TO BUILD SWIMMING POOL AT CAMP OCKANICKON

Bids Received on Cost of Pool and Dam; Former Being Selected

AT EXECUTIVE MEETING

Field Executive John J. Lee
Re-Elected; Plan Scouting Day Here

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 8.—Twenty-three members of the executive board of the Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America, met in the Doylestown Inn, last evening, to consider various problems concerning scouting in Bucks county.

Grace was said by the Reverend A. B. Davidson, and following dinner, a business session was held.

Two proposals were made to cover the swimming situation at camp: (1) That a dam be erected on the Tockickon Creek; and (2) that a swimming pool be constructed. Bids were obtained from six contractors, and as the cost of the dam was very close to that of the swimming pool, it was voted to eliminate the dam for the present and make every effort to go ahead with the swimming pool.

A special committee consisting of John S. Steele, Churchville; Harry Harding, Southampton; E. H. Lovett, Yardley; president Walter W. Pitzonka, Bristol; and scout executive Robert B. Goeller, Doylestown, ex-officio, was named to raise additional funds from a selected list on the basis of constructing a memorial pool.

The executives were instructed to send a letter of thanks to district commissioner Gilbert W. Carlin, Doylestown, for the work that he had contributed, in drawing a special training certificate, symbolic of Camp Ockanickon, the camp training center; and Oscar Martin and Son, Doylestown, for the preparation of plans and counsel in connection with the swimming problems.

Field executive, John J. Lee, was unanimously re-elected for another year. Dr. A. J. Stathrie, Newtown, chairman of the camp committee reported on the record made of his committee; and recommended to the board that the camp fee be raised from $5.50 to $6.00 a week to cover the increased food costs. He pointed out that the camp fee as paid by Bucks County scouts is several dollars a week less than any other council in camp in the region. He informed the board that the annual scouting day will be held in Bristol this year on May 10th; the camporee at Camp Ockanickon on June 6th, and the annual cub picnic at the same place on June 14th. The increase in the camp fee was approved.

Field executive John J. Lee reported on the recent training group that week-ended at Camp Ockanickon, and stated that five courses were offered and that 65 certificates were awarded.

District commissioner Gilbert W. Carlin was elected to the board as chairman of the council public relations committee; and Sampson MacDowell, New Britain, as chairman of the rural scouting committee; William Fryckberg, St. Francis School, Edgington, district chairman; Harry E. Oliver, Andalusia, and Charles H. Boehm, Morrisville, newly-elected chairman of the council training committee, were welcomed by president Pitzonka as new members of the board.

"Lone Ranger" Killed In Motor Accident

Detroit, Apr. 8.—The familiar cry of "Hi Ho Silver" which thrilled the heart of American youth was stilled early today when an automobile accident killed 32-year-old Earl W. Graser, the Lone Ranger.

Officials said Graser was killed instantly about 4.30 a. m. when his car crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer parked by a highway in nearby Farmington where Graser lived.

Felix Holt, radio station supervisor, said the program would continue and that Bruce Beemer, who originally played the part and has been the program's narrator, would resume the Lone Ranger role.

Search Is On For Missing Patrol Bomber

Philadelphia, Apr. 8.—Six planes took off from the Naval Air Base at Cape May, N. J., today under orders from the Philadelphia Navy Yard to aid in search for the navy patrol bomber missing with 10 men aboard since yesterday morning.

Pilot of the missing bomber, enroute to Quonset Point, R. I., was ensign George Nelson Blackburn, 27, of Lenni Mills near Media. A graduate of West Chester State Teachers College in 1939, he was commissioned a reserve flying officer six months later.

Many Farmers Object To Soil Conservation

Harrisburg, Apr. 8.—The State's failure to extend the soil-conservation program beyond four districts in Pennsylvania today was defended by Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light.

Appearing before a House controlled investigating committee, which has been in session more than three weeks, Light claimed that farmers "have maintained the fertility of the soil and they do not want interference by force, coercion or intimidation."

Light said some farmers feared that extension of soil conservation which included "agreements" between district supervisors and the U. S. Department of Agriculture "will eventually mean governmental domination of their farms."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Undeclared War

Washington, April 7.

THE relation of this country to the war is without precedent and, in some ways, without reason. From one angle, we are more than halfway in it now, sure to go the full distance soon. From another, we are not in it at all, and there are plenty who still insist we are not going to be.

ONE point of view is illustrated by comments such as recently came from Senator Clyde Herring, of Iowa, a strong Roosevelt supporter, who declared that not a handful of votes for entering the war could be gotten in Congress. The other is evidenced by the facts that members of the German and Italian Embassies are practically packed up, waiting for the word to Mounties' adventure story and radio serial.

The auction sale of farm implements, cattle and poultry at the farm of Fred C. Riley, near Edison, on Friday, was well attended, with good prices being received throughout the sale.

A Jersey cow went to the highest bidder for $90, and a heifer brought $37.

Two horses were sold, one for $48 and the other for $20. Brood sows brought $27 each and shoats from $4.15 to $5.75.

Prices for some of the farm implements follow: flat wagon, $68; hay wagon, $17; circular saw, $14; manure spreader, $28; tractor, $350; tractor plow, $57.50; tractor disc, $40; spring tooth harrow, $20; roller, $15; corn planter, $39; mowing machine, $29, and hay rake, $16.

Efforts will be made by the Perkase W. C. T. U. to raise funds in order to send a delegate to the encampment of the Youth Temperance Council at Bloomsburg State Teachers' College from June 28 until July 7. This decision was made at the meeting held a few days ago at the home of Mrs. Susan Texter.

Members were asked to urge members of Congress to support the Shephard Bill.

Pictures of the canal along the Delaware River were shown by William Taylor, a representative of the Delaware Valley Protective Association, when Makefield Liberty Club members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Neal, near New Hope, on Friday evening.

Mr. Taylor explained to the approximately 30 persons at the meeting the importance of preserving the natural beauty and scenery along the Delaware river.

A brief business session was conducted with the president, Robert T. Ely, in charge. At that time committee chairmen presented their reports. The report of the legislative committee was presented by Norman S. Davis, who commented upon the milk inspection bill before the Legislature. The report of the flower club committee was given by Mrs. Odessa Long and Miss Margaret R. Slack.

Student Is Named Pastor Of A Morrisville Church

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 8.—Paul Currie, a student at the Eastern Baptist Seminary, Philadelphia, has been named as pastor of the Morrisville Baptist Church.

Mr. Currie succeeds Jesse Wester as pastor of the local church, the latter having been called to a pastorate in Philadelphia. The new pastor was born in Woodstock, New Brunswick, Canada. Last Summer he had charge of a church in Springfield, Pa., that had been closed for over a year, and succeeded in bringing it together again.

The new pastor was selected by a group of five on the pulpit committee, which includes John Wagner, chairman; Clifford Deltrick, J. Huber, Mrs. George Sanford and Winfield Sipler, Sr.

PRESBYTERIANS NAME TRUSTEES AND ELDERS

First Corporation and Congregational Meeting Held Under New Charter

DEPARTMENT REPORTS

The first corporation and congregational meeting of the Bristol Presbyterian Church to be held under the new charter which was adopted in the Bucks County courts last month, took place last evening in the church. Approximately 80 members of the congregation were in attendance for the annual meeting.

The program included election of seven trustees under the new charter; also the election of two elders.

The Rev. James R. Gailey, pastor, opened the meeting with a devotional period; after which Dr. Frank Lehman, president of the board of trustees, conducted the business meeting. Robert C. Ruehl, chairman of the property committee, and Herbert A. Pettit, Sr., treasurer, presented their reports.

Trustees elected under the new charter include the following: Abraham Bustran and Ralph Scheffey, one year; Harold Hanson and Mr. Ruehl, two years; Dr. Lehman, Mr. Pettit, and George Ardrey, three years.

After the meeting was turned over to the pastor, heads of all departments of the church, and of the various societies, gave reports for the past year. All departments showed increase over previous years.

Messrs. Paul V. Forster and Rufus King were elected as elders for terms of three years, succeeding themselves. Refreshments were served to the gathering.

Thomas H. Stackhouse Dies; Was A Native of Emilie

A former resident of Emilie, well-known in this section, died on Saturday in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The deceased is Thomas H. Stackhouse, husband of Agatha Stackhouse (nee Pymton).

AT SOUTH BRISTOL

Lease Two-Story Building
From Samuel Jackson's Sons, Inc.

Bristol's newest industry—the Air-Cooled Wheel Corporation—is now in operation, at South Bristol, with many hours being spent at present on defense projects.

In the two-story building it has leased from Samuel Jackson's Sons, Inc., along State Road, the Air-Cooled Wheel Corporation, is busy manufacturing grinding wheels for all uses—grinding of wood, rubber, copper, cast iron, and all sorts of steel.

Although the number of employees is small, being seven at present, officials of the company state that within a short time this number may be enlarged.

The building where manufacturing operations are being carried on has approximately 4,500 square feet of floor space.

August C. Ciell, a resident of Philadelphia, is the president of the newly-formed company; Charles B. Cliphsham, vice president; and Henry A. Frye, secretary-treasurer.

Organizing Committee On Housing Situation

Bristol's housing shortage, caused by the influx of workers into the community who are employed at the local industries having defense contracts, came a step nearer solution last evening when a group of local business men, civic leaders, realtors, builders, and others interested in the housing problem met to discuss the conditions. This was the second meeting sponsored by the Mill Street Business Men's Association to determine if new housing can be brought to Bristol.

A community committee was organized last evening with William J. Begley, Esq., unanimously elected as chairman. Mr. Begley outlined briefly the steps to be taken in order to get all information necessary on the housing question. He also spoke briefly on the new section of the FHA law, Title VI, which allows private capital to be invested in houses erected for rental.

After considerable general discussion Mr. Begley called a meeting for Monday evening, April 14, at the K. of C. Home on Radcliffe street at eight o'clock.

ALMOST SENSATIONAL

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States Public Health Service is almost sensational in his comments upon health conditions "near some defense areas" in this country.

Dr. Parran has been to England lately and naturally gave some of his attention to sanitary conditions in London's air-raid shelters. "I was astonished," he told the New England Institute, "to find that in the worst of them sanitation was much better than among our civilian families in a dozen booming defense areas I could mention."

Furthermore, regarding physical examinations of selective service registrants, he said that returns to date had "uncovered a public health problem to challenge the maximum intelligence of American medicine and public health." To which assertion he added this comment: "There is little consolation in the fact that physical standards imposed by the Army are more rigid or that the quality of physical examination is improved as compared to 1917 or that many registrants are being rejected whose disqualifying defects might escape notice in civilian life," for the conditions revealed "still remain a national disgrace."

Perhaps the eminent and conscientious health authority is here speaking from the viewpoint of the idealist. Individuals of perfect physical condition are so rare in this world that when one is found he is presented as an unusual example of what most persons would like to attain but which few approximate.

But the lack of sanitation that Dr. Parran implies is something else again and for the existence of which no adequate excuse can be offered in these days of modern knowledge.

COLLEGES AND THE DRAFT

To alumni generally the story of dwindling college and university revenues has not been a new one for years. They are thoroughly familiar with the fact that reinvestment of endowment funds has almost invariably been at lower interest rates.

But the situation is markedly worse from the fact that enrollment for bachelor degrees and in the graduate schools is falling off. For this the war is to blame. The falling off began to be noticeable early last summer, although it was not until August 3 that there was any intimation the administration at Washington favored conscription, and it did not become law until September. The loss was reflected in the academic year now drawing to a close.

Now, with the draft in full swing, it is certain that there will be heavy cuts in college attendance in the 1941-1942 year the country over. That creates an extremely difficult problem in budgeting. It is easy enough to say that the colleges must cut their garment to fit the cloth, but with permanent faculties and extensive curricula, it is not as simple as it seems.

It costs as much to teach 40 as 50 in a particular course, and a 20 per cent personnel shrinkage works havoc in reliable revenues. Some institutions already are appealing to their alumni to do energetic missionary work and turn students toward their alma mater. As concerns the colleges as a whole, that gets nowhere in settling the problem because the meat of one becomes the poison of another.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM SUBURBAN TOWNS

HULMEVILLE

Miss Jean Phipps, a student nurse in the Women's Homeopathic Hospital, Philadelphia, is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phipps.

Sunday guests of Mrs. William Vornhold and family were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schneider, Philadelphia.

Robert Corrigan, a student at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana, is passing the Easter holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Corrigan, Jr.

The Methodist Epworth League members will meet at the home of Leora and George Wood near Newportville on Friday evening.

NEWPORTVILLE

The Y. P. C. U. took charge of the morning worship service on Sunday in Newportville Community Church—Presbyterian. Miss Barbara Ingraham made the opening prayer. John Brambley read the scripture. The choir sang an anthem, followed by prayer by Karl Kohler; C. Bentley Collins, choir leader, sang; Miss Frances Mattocks gave the junior sermon to the children; and Fred Kohler, Jr., brought the message.

"Lover Come Back"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Mayes stopped close. "What's this about Ikeda coming back here?"

"I—I'm afraid me granddaughter has given him me model of the Glory; and inside, in a hidden compartment, are me secret charts of the Aleutians. The charts Uncle Sam is sendin' for next week."

"Lord!" gasped the intelligence officer.

"Jodin, go tell Miss Sondra to come here at once."

"But, sir—I just told you. Miss Sondra went aboard the Dragon with the Japan and the ship's model."

"You mean she didn't come ashore again?"

"No, sir. The Dragon pulled right out, sir."

O'Moore and Mayas looked at each other, their faces gone grim.

"If he harms me girl, Mayes," the Captain's voice was deadly quiet.

"I'll have his life if I have to follow him to Tokyo and drag him out from under the throne of the Son of Heaven."

Mayes nodded tersely. "The Pellet left Juneau just after we did, to cruise around the Gulf of Alaska. We'll get the radio after her at once, with orders not to stop calling till they get an answer."

The two men were silently hurrying across the causeway toward the radio office when the Baltic came moving up the channel. Mayes remarked, "That's Winthrop in the pithouse with young Reynall. Before we try to contact the Pellet, we'd better see him. He may have sighted the Dragon on his way in."

But when, on the Bates wharf, Mayes put the query to the Forest Man, the latter shook his head. "We came round by the inside passage. We didn't see her. What's in the wind, Mayes?"

Briefly, Mayes recounted the main events of the day, ending with, "Now it looks as if Ikeda and Starbuck have dumped on the Blue Dragon, taking O'Moore's charts and, I fear, his granddaughter." He turned to Reynall. "Would any of you—"

But Reynall had already beckoned to his young wireless operator who was loitering on the Glory's forward deck. "You were on watch this afternoon, Sparks. What activity did you note on Starbuck's float?"

"The Dragon showed off about nine minutes past four, sir. Half an hour before that, a plane landed Ikeda on the float. Starbuck met him there. Both men hurried back into the plant. I paid little attention to what was going on over there; but I was aware the crew of the Dragon was getting lined up to shove off. Then I saw Miss O'Moore go aboard. Ikeda was following her, carrying the model of a ship."

"Did Miss O'Moore come ashore before the Dragon pulled out?"

"No, Captain Reynall."

A moment of heavy silence was broken by a sound between a curse and a groan. O'Moore said, "He's taken her—me girl. And there's not a vessel within two hundred miles far enough to overtake—" He broke off and turned to look at the Glory moored to the wharf. At the same moment Reynall did likewise. As if performing in a pantomime duet, the old and the young master lifted speculative eyes to the high, sun-bright clouds scurrying out of the southeast; they considered the ship's new masts, her newly-rigged yards with sails snugly furled. They lifted their faces, as if smelling the freshening breeze that blew along the waterfront. Then, at the same moment, they turned to each other, and nodded.

"By the horn-billed jeezaw, you're right!" declared O'Moore, as if Reynall had spoken. "With this wind, the old girl can do her seventeen knots easy; and the Dragon's top speed is fifteen." His keen old eyes again raked the vessel's waterline. "By heavens, the way ye have her ballasted, Reynall, she'll do better than seventeen."

"I'll get her under way at once."

The Blue Dragon had been gone from Sitka only two hours when the Glory, towed by the Baltic, cleared the harbor islands and cast off her tug. Her royals, last sails to unfurl, bloomed out one after another,

The offering was taken by the Misses Ruth Mattocks and Alice Backhouse. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hahnemann are the parents of a girl, born in the Nazareth Hospital on Saturday.

Willow Grove Park To Open Saturday, April 19th

Willow Grove Park opens its 46th season on Saturday, April 19. Beginning on this date the park will be open every Saturday and Sunday until May 30, when the daily Summer schedule starts.

For weeks a crew of mechanics and painters have been at work taking the Winter coverings off the amusements, giving the rides their Spring tune-up and generally bedecking the park in its festive Summer dress so that all will be in readiness for the gala opening on Saturday, April 19.

This date also marks the first of the Spring Saturday night dances at Willow Grove Park, in the delightful Dance Casino which overlooks the gorgeous Fountain of Rainbows. This unique fountain sends forth hundreds of jets of crystal clear water, across the beams of multicolored spotlights, producing all the shades and hues of a giant rainbow.

On Sunday, April 20, the park's famous master of ceremonies, Frankie Schlutz, will present the season's first all-star stage show in the music pavilion.

"Not the slightest. Remember, I got only a glimpse of him as I stood on the stairs. Why don't you save time by smashing the thing open with an ax?"

"My dear Starbuck! I recoil from using brutal methods on a thing so delicate and lovely. I'm a sentimental man, Lieutenant. . . . And, as I intimated in another connection, I prefer finesse to force—when there's time to exercise it. And we'll have plenty of time to puzzle this out before we reach Yokohama."

The voices subsided to occasional murmurs until finally there came the sound of heels clicking across the floor and Ikeda's voice, "Temporarily, I yield to the craftsman who made this secret drawer. Try your wits on it, Lieutenant."

"You're standing this watch in the wheelhouse, Commander?"

"Yes. You will take over at midnight, while I catch up on the sleep I've missed of late. And, some time this evening, you'd better break out the firearms and distribute them. I don't expect any trouble, but it's well to be prepared."

Sondra heard Ikeda depart for the wheelhouse. Then, too shaker to move, she lay in the berth while the incredible disclosures of the past few hours whirled through her tired brain. Dynamite—concealing his secret charts in the model of the Glory. Ikeda—the night prowler searching Echo House for those charts, which must be valuable indeed, since a Japanese commander had been sent to steal them. Kemp—a commissioned officer in some arm of the American service—but a traitor, a coward, an accomplice of—

A queer sound brought her upright in the berth, her heart beating crazily. A stealthy slithering which seemed to be almost in the room with her. She had drawn the curtains across the ports, but still she could see there was nothing alive in the cabin—except herself. Yet it continued; a sound such as some huge serpent might make as it dragged its coils slowly across the floor. She sat, rigid with fear of the unknown, until a faint creak and a gentle thump against the underside of the berth sent her leaping to the other side of the room to turn on the light.

She stooped to peer under the berth. There, against the lifted lip of a trap door, was outlined the blond head of Kemp Starbuck.

"You—you worm! You traitor!" Her voice was unsteady with fury and contempt.

"Hush!" He placed a warning finger on his lips and motioned her to come closer. "Hush, for heaven's sake, Sondra! He whispered hurriedly. And something in his gaunt, anguished face gripped her to silence.

"If I'm to save you, darling, you've got to trust me. There's no time for explanations. I doubt that my acting completely fooled Ikeda—he may be at your door any moment. Now, listen closely. This trap door opens into a cache where we've kept our rifles and a machine gun. The cache is a shallow, box-shaped space under the deck, just wide enough for a man to crawl through. The other end opens into the lazaret, away aft near the stern. In a few minutes I'm taking the guns out, so there'll be no reason for anyone to come near the place later. My watch begins at midnight. After Ikeda has gone to sleep, I want you to slip back through this chute to the lazaret. I'll join you there and we'll plan something. Will you do that? Will you trust me?"

Her wide gaze clung to his shadowed face, estimating, wondering. Kemp's familiar, cameo-cut face. . . . His brown eyes looking at her with anguished pleading and—that look of love she had grown to know. Instinct prompted her reply. "I trust you, Kemp. I'll do what you say."

"Good girl!" His brief smile wrenched her heart, stiffened her courage. "Now, you must take this—" he reached under his coat and handed her an automatic pistol.

When she took the weapon, he bent his lips to her hand. Then he was gone, and the trap door was sinking silently into place.

Jenks, esteemed lecturing knight; Mulford Callanan, treasurer; Howard R. Thornton, secretary; and John S. Williams, trustee.

Those appointed as officials of the lodge, who were also installed last evening, are: Joseph McMackin, exalted; Francis Hampton, chaplain; Harry M. Arnold, organist; Phillip Arensmeyer, iller.

On behalf of the house committee, Mr. Munster presented to Mr. Schmidt, retiring exalted ruler, a plexiglas gavel, in the head of which was embedded the elk insignia.

Committee members were named for the ensuing year by the new exalted ruler, Mr. Wichser.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, Courier:

Dreams seldom come true. Often we at Bristol High School imagined an enterprise in which, through the cooperation of everyone, students, faculty and townspeople, we could rise to heights of entertainment that would be a worthwhile community service.

"A Waltz Dream" is a perfect medium by which we can present ourselves and our accomplishments to you. It is one of the most ambitious productions ever attempted by Bristol High School; music, comedy, acting and dancing blend themselves into a superbly exciting pattern. A cast of one hundred high school students has worked untiringly to make this undertaking a success. In the background various committees of students and faculty members have labored together in what we consider a triumph of cooperative effort. We offer as the result, for your pleasure, "A Waltz Dream."

In the presentation of "A Waltz Dream," we feel that we are serving you to the best of our ability. We earnestly solicit your support and cooperation in order to make our dream come true.

LE ROY BOOTH,

Member of B. H. S. Faculty.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By Howard L. Zepp, Th. M.)

Heavenly Father, make us aware that as we live by changing, so our souls demand fresh experiences. Help us to see that real saints are humble, open-minded people. May we progressively claim and intelligently hold the great securities of our faith. O Thou who changeest not, save us from a sense of spiritual self sufficiency and guide us in our changes. Be our pilot over every untried way. Amen.

were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Moore, Taft street, during the past week. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Moore attended a family dinner party given in honor of Miss Bernice Doherty, who was celebrating her birthday; and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Doherty, in honor of their wedding anniversary. The party was held at the Doherty home in Bywood. Miss Jean Doherty, Philadelphia, was a Friday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Miss Anna Lippincott, Linden street, and William Logan, Trenton, N. J., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Luff, Vineand, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skirm, Harrison street, were visitors of relatives in Morrisville during the week-end.

Private Robert S. Ellis, of Company K, 111th Infantry, Indiantown Gap, paid a visit to his mother, Mrs. Mary Waters, Cleveland street, on Palm Sunday.

The home of Mrs. Nicholas Paolella, Jefferson avenue, was the scene of a pleasing affair on Saturday evening, when one of a series of birthday dinners was tendered to members of the Home Art Club. Pussywillows and daffodils formed the centerpiece, and a repast was served.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

James Roosevelt knew that he had a truly great screen property in "Pastor Hall" when he decided to present this stirring and dramatic motion picture of life in Nazi Germany to movie audiences. The picture, which is based on an original story by Ernest Toller, will have its local premiere at the Grand Theatre today through United Artists release. Filmed from the screenplay by Leslie Arliss, Anna Reiner and Haworth Bromley, "Pastor Hall" has a starring cast which includes Wilfrid Lawson, Nova Pilbeam, Seymour Hicks, Marius Goring and Hay Petrie. It was directed by Roy Boulting.

Briefly, the story of "Pastor Hall" centers about a clergyman in the small town of Altdorf who dares to oppose the Nazi regime. In spite of threats against himself and against his beautiful daughter Pastor Hall remains firm in his beliefs and fearlessly refuses to accept the pagan pressure of the new German order.

BRISTOL THEATRE

A typical "Joe Public," Roscoe Karns was the ideal choice for the role of the head of the Higgins tribe in Republic's current family series, the latest being "Petticoat Politics," now showing at the Bristol Theatre.

A native Californian, Roscoe traces his ancestry straight back to Ireland, but boasts of the fact that there were absolutely no distinguished people in his family.

"Spies in the Air" is a timely picture on two accounts. First there is the story of a new bureau supposedly organized by London to ferret out members of the Fifth Column; secondly, it deals with the development of a new type of the British fighter plane.

BENSALEM OPENS YEAR ON DIAMOND WITH A WIN OVER UPPER MORELAND

By Jack Gill

Ted Devoe and Bill Roberts collaborated to hurl Bensalem High School to an auspicious start on the baseball field at Cornwells Heights yesterday afternoon, when the Owls pried the lid off the local season by tallying a 5 to 3 win over Upper Moreland.

Devoe's six inning tenure on the mound was an up and down affair. Although the veteran mainstay of the Blue and Gray staff gave up but one measly single during his stay, he also issued out seven free passes. But when the chips were riding and men were perched on base due to his own graciousness, he bore down and whiffed six batters.

Russ Jones played a prominent part in the opening day triumph. His squeeze bunt in the big fourth inning uprisings sent two base runners scurrying across the platter.

The winners were forced to overcome a 3 to 0 disadvantage to gain the victory. Upper Moreland started off with a bang in the initial inning by scoring two markers on a single by Bob Haupt, a double by Huff and an error by Bob Smith. Huff's double was the pay-off. Haupt, who led the swatters for the afternoon, rapped out another safe hit in the second inning, stole second base, advanced to third on an infield knock and waltzed home on an error by catcher Fleming. That ended Upper Moreland's scoring for the day.

Bensalem came to life in the fourth to win the fray. Jack Hamor opened this canto by smashing a single to center. Hank Killian's best was a fly to Moore in left. But Pete Everitt drew a base on balls and Ted Devoe scored Hamor with a smash to left field. Mossbrook was safe on Newss's miscue. Then followed the two run squeeze bunt by Jones and a mental error of omission by the Upper Moreland maskman. Everitt and Devoe scored.

The proteges of George Reimer added another in the fifth when Hamor reached first on an error by Nowas and Hank Killian doubled to center.

Opening day ceremonies marked the first game played in scholastic ranks in Lower Bucks sectors. The Bensalem band spun off lively tunes, the weather was amazingly good for a first day game and school Superintendent Kurtz King slung out the first ball.

J. A. C. BOWLERS TAKE SECOND HALF HONORS

Felix Tomlinson's J. A. C. bowling quintet finally caught up with itself and managed to take top honors for the second half. A fast stepping Traveler team took 3 out of 4 points from the champs in the final campaign. "Pete" Kondyra was the big gun for the winners with 644 while "Bernie" Carlen clipped 567 for the league leaders.

A hard fighting Cucumber team took three out of four from the Rohm and Haas chemical mixers. Robinson cracked the maple for a 573 total and Mike Korkel again was high for his team with 551.

Bell's All Stars went to town against Bristol Bowling Club with a 2897 total, taking all four points. Kendig and Pursell both hit over the 600 mark with "Chick" O'Boyle supplying the most opposition for the old men, having a nice 559 count.

The Burlington boys won a 3 to 1 verdict over the Badenhausen pinmen. "Old Man" VanSeiver hit for 576 for the visitors while Milt Jones came through with 550 for the losers.

"Andy" Moore, bowling in open play came through with a brilliant 290 game. This is the highest single game bowled at the Bristol Recreation Center this season.

German Naval Bases Blasted
London, Apr. 8—British bombers blasted the German naval bases of Kiel, Bremerhaven and Emden during the night and also attacked objectives in German-occupied territory, the air ministry announced today.

Kiel, the main objective of the night attack, was raided for five hours, according to the communique, which said hundreds of tons of the most powerful British bombs caused the destruction of submarine buildings, yards and docks.

London experienced a brief air raid alarm today but no incidents were reported.

500,000 Men Continue Idle

Over 500,000 men, key workers in the nation's defense industries, continued idle today as the result of strikes and walkouts. Latest developments included:

The stoppage in the soft coal industry, involving 400,000 miners, entered its second week as operators failed to agree with a CIO demand for the elimination of a wage differential between southern and northern mines.

Over 118,000 men in all the Ford plants in the nation continued idle as Federal and State conciliators failed to effect an agreement over the dispute that has shut the Ford parent plant at Dearborn.

Greeks Forced Into Foot-By-Foot Withdrawal

Athens, Apr. 8—Outnumbered "ten to one," Greek troops on the northeastern front were forced into a foot-by-foot withdrawal today following a break-through by German forces into Yugoslavia.

With the Yugoslavs giving way under the impact of a terrific attack by Greek bombers and motorized units, the Greek left flank exposed, necessitating the start of a withdrawal from the east.

Greek officials reported, however, that their soldiers were fighting with bravery and ferocity for every inch of ground.

The Great Game of Politics

which "proclaim our unmitigated enmity to Hitler and the whole Nazi philosophy. And, at vast expense, we are furiously arming against the possibility of the defeat of the British before our full aid can become effective.

THE only thing we are not doing is shooting. The truth is that we are waging an undeclared war against Germany and are using the fact that we are not preparing to send troops abroad—up to this time, anyhow—nor to convey supplies as a pretense that we are not at war. It is a pretense that does not fool many people. Certainly it does not fool the Axis powers. In some respects it is a somewhat ridiculous position for a great nation to occupy. It puts us actively and openly on the side of the British, but makes it impossible for us to give them all the assistance of which we are capable. For example, it prevents us from relieving the terrific strain under which they labor in protecting the fleets of freighters used to transport the supplies we are providing for her. How long we can refrain from conveying is a matter of speculation, but the opinion in Washington
